

DAILY HERALD.

THE REBUTTAL.

Testimony which contradicts that for the Respondent.

The contest between Hon. J. D. Lynch and Geo. Wm. Vandever is still in progress before Capt. Seaman, and the rebuttal evidence contradicts squarely the statements made in favor of respondent.

R. J. Dominguez testified that Judge Toney told him that it was right for him to place his name to a certificate of enrollment. That was the only enrollment made by witness who did not know whether the name was placed on the Great Register.

County Clerk Dunsmore testified that he had made a list of the precincts in the county, which he had placed in a book. Mr. Bili's name had been on the list at El Monte. He had given the book to Mr. Thompson to send out the notices from, but he did not know whether they had been addressed from that list or from an incomplete list also in the book.

Robert Dominguez identified signatures attached to affidavits which had been brought into question and which had been written at the request of the parties themselves, most of whom could not write.

Cross-examined—Witness testified that he could not remember some of those whom he had registered as they were perfect strangers. The date of the jurats had been changed by him after his appointment had been filed and the parties whose names were attached had been re-sworn.

B. Solomon testified that he knew Garafano and was present when he was enrolled by Dominguez. Garafano could not write his name but said he had become a citizen in Oakland. He could not write, so he asked Dominguez to do it for him. Witness did not live on Commercial street at the time of the election, so no voters were taken into his back rooms on election day. He had not lived there since last July.

Cross-examined—There are a number of tailor shops on Commercial street, but I had not been there for some time prior to the election.

C. L. Margitt testified that he kept the cigar stand where Garafano was registered. Garafano said he had taken his papers out in Oakland. His name was signed at his request.

Cross-examined—Garafano did not say where his citizens' papers were, but he said he had obtained them in Oakland.

John T. Bryant testified that he knew Roberto Valencia, who had told him in a saloon about three weeks ago that if he would testify he would be well fixed. Valencia wanted witness to see Mr. Appel, whom he had told he had seen say votes bought and Mr. Appel said he did not want him to testify if he saw no votes purchased.

William Justice testified that he had not been in the chain gang and had worked for seven years in this town as a laborer. On election day he voted at the White House, but he had not been put in line by Abbott or Bilderrain. He had been bothered by Joe. Manning and others and he had told them his vote could not be bought. Manning was working for the Republican party. Witness did not get into the middle of the line and came a disturbance as testified to by Captain Tyler.

Cross-examined—Never had been arrested as a tramp, or a vagrant, or a drunk.

Adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

PROPERTY OWNERS PROTEST

Against Switch Tracks Being Laid Across First Street.

On Monday next a petition signed by a large number of property owners along First street and on Boyle Heights, protesting against the laying and maintenance of switching tracks across First street, will be presented to the City Council. On Monday last Mayor Workman and Councilman Hyman drew the attention of the Council to the fact that the Santa Fe company had laid four tracks across First street, and proposed to lay four more. This, in the opinion of the Councilmen and the Mayor and of the petitioners, will make the approach to the bridge one of the most dangerous to life in the city, and a special committee was appointed to see what could be done in the way of inducing the company to remove the tracks or putting up a viaduct. Mayor Workman interviewed Engineer Ferris on the subject, but could not obtain any satisfactory answer, so he telegraphed to Vice-President Smith, and yesterday he received an answer stating that Mr. Smith would be here about ten days, when a satisfactory arrangement would be made, and asking the petitioners to take in the matter until that time.

There are now five tracks across First street, two near the bridge and three a hundred feet or so this side. The erection of the freight depot and passenger shed is progressing rapidly, and the track graders and layers are a considerable distance below the location chosen as sites.

"COOLIE WAR."

Elinore Citizens Make It a Very Tame Affair.

ELINORE, May 24, 1887.
 EDITORS HERALD:—Under the head of "Coolie War in Elinore" appears an article in yesterday's Tribune, purporting to be "Tribune's special service," which so grossly misrepresents the facts in the case as to demand a correction on the part of the citizens of Elinore. The circumstances are substantially as follows:

One K. McLeod, late of Canada, arrived in Elinore a few weeks since and commenced operations as a contractor, and some three weeks since he commenced the manufacture of brick on a small scale. He employed a small force of men and boys at such wages as he chose to offer, and no complaint was heard from the men as to wages. Last week he announced that he would bring in a gang of Chinamen, and discharged the whites on the ground that the bricks were costing him more than he could afford to pay. A number of citizens went to him and protested against such a course, saying that the people had always opposed Chinese, and none had ever been allowed to stop in Elinore, and that it would bring on trouble. He swore he would bring Chinamen and work them, if he had to use revolvers to do it, and those who molested them would "have to walk over his dead body," etc.

In the mean time two boys in his employ asked him to increase their wages from $5 to $8. This was the only thing that had the slightest resemblance to a strike, and no one thought of calling it such. The same boys were not known in the proceedings of Saturday night and Sunday. On Saturday morning two of the men were on their way to their work, when McLeod met and discharged them. They were both known as faithful, honest men, and one of them was about seventy years of age and much respected as a quite peaceable citizen.

A meeting of citizens was held on Saturday night to take counsel, and McLeod was sent for. He was received in the most friendly and courteous manner and told that they were willing to do anything in their power to aid him in procuring suitable men at reasonable wages, if by so doing they could avert the Chinese evil. The next proposition he would offer was that "if the citizens would furnish him a certain number of men at such wages as he was willing to pay, and the men would turn out a specified number of bricks each day, he would send the Chinamen away," but he added that he knew that they could not comply with his demand. The citizens proposed to make an effort to that effect provided that he would agree to keep the Chinamen away until a committee could go to Los Angeles and look for the men. This he refused to do, and said the Chinamen would be here on Monday morning, without fail, and then he indulged in an insulting and unprovoked onslaught on the working people of Elinore in general. A pledge was signed by fifty-one persons to not patronize McLeod's business; also, a Committee was appointed to meet the Chinese on the train Monday morning, before they arrive in Elinore, and inform them of the opposition to their coming, and, if possible, turn them back. The meeting then adjourned.

The only sentiment expressed at the meeting in regard to the Chinese was that they were not to blame, and must not be injured in person or property, but that they were an evil that must be excluded from Elinore.

On Sunday morning the people were astonished to find the Chinese already in town, McLeod having met them at the early train with a wagon, and conveyed them through town to his brickyard, thus showing that he had deceived the people as to the time of their coming. A Committee of one waited on the Chinamen, and told them of the opposition to their presence, and asked them if they were willing to leave peacefully. The foreman, who could speak very good English, replied that they had not been told of any hostility to them in Elinore, and that they would leave at once, as they did not wish to remain where the people "no like Chinaman," but he said they had no money to pay their fares. The committee reported back, and at once the required amount was made up (about $30) to pay their fares back to San Diego. A large party of men then started in the direction of the brickyard, but were met by McLeod, who swore that there would be bloodshed if they advanced. They appointed a committee of two to wait upon the Chinese, who advanced to the yard, notwithstanding McLeod continued to curse and denounce them and threaten to kill the first man who put foot on his ground. Up to this time the crowd was wholly unarmed, and continued so with the exception of two men, who, upon being personally threatened, went to a house near by and procured guns, but made no demonstration with them, further than to warn McLeod that he had better not fire on them. He then threatened to shoot the two men who were drawing the wagon intended to convey the Chinamen to the depot. On being told that the Chinamen wished to go, and that they were free agents and had a right to leave if they wished, he said that they were not, that he had hired them from the man who owned them, and that they should go to work. The men did not go on McLeod's ground, but the Chinamen carried their own bundles to the wagon and put them in, and got in and were driven to the depot. They were treated so well that they laughed all the way, and at the depot they asked for money to buy bread at the restaurant, which was given them by the men who had purchased and left them in the best of humor, except that they denounced the man who had deceived them to get them to Elinore.

Now, in conclusion, we say nearly every statement in the Tribune's article yesterday was false. There has never been a strike in Elinore. The bricklayers had nothing whatever to do with sending the Chinamen away. The crowd was not armed with guns, pistols, knives or any other weapons. No one threatened to hang, shoot or in any other manner injure a Chinaman. No one threatened violence, except McLeod himself. He still swears that he will bring a gang of Chinamen and work them if it costs blood, and the United States army to protect them, but no one has any fears of that. Elinore can and will do without Chinamen.

is valued at $391,000, being by long odds the largest that ever entered Vancouver. The News-Advertiser, unimpaired of the assistance the American Congress rendered Vancouver in enacting the Interstate act, comments as follows:

This is a fair sample of the way trade and shipping will flow into Vancouver in the future, and the predictions as to the success of the city of even the most sanguine persons will, without doubt, be fulfilled. After discharging, the Walla Walla will return to San Francisco for another cargo which will equal in value the present one.

It is a curious circumstance that the National Opera Troupe lost money in San Francisco and came out with a large surplus over expenses in Los Angeles. When we consider the great number of people connected with this troupe, there is no escaping the conclusion that their expenses must have been enormous, and nothing but first-class houses would enable them to pay their way. That such a troupe could draw from a city of the population of Los Angeles over $28,000 for six nights shows that our people are ready to patronize liberally any really meritorious entertainment, no matter how costly it may be. But the point of view we prefer to take of a successful season of grand opera, such as we have had, is in the credit it reflects upon the culture and esthetic taste of our people. It will give Los Angeles a status abroad as a city where progressive merit is appreciated, and where the most distinguished artists can always count upon a liberal welcome. This kind of reputation is of value to any community, especially to one that is attracting to itself the most intelligent and desirable people of the whole Union.

A SHORT TIME ago a number of very heavy pieces of ordnance were sent out to Victoria. It is now stated that the defenses of British Columbia are to be greatly increased. What are we to infer from the sudden activity of the British Government in building up a great military stronghold on this coast? There is no other power to guard against than ours. British Columbia is safe from attacks from all other powers, and unless Great Britain is preparing for emergencies with the United States, there is no need of this formidable strengthening of her little dependency to the north of us. Perhaps the British Cabinet are looking forward to complications with this country that may lead to war, and are making preparations that will give them a powerful military advantage over us in the start. With Victoria as the rendezvous for their ironclads, they could menace this coast very effectively in case of any serious international controversy. Would it not be the part of wisdom for our Government to take serious notice of these warlike preparations, and offset them by equally effective preparations on our part?

LAST EVENING'S Express says that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company are about to overhaul the caterers at the stations, there has been so much complaint from travelers about the meals served at some of them. Our contemporary singles out Lathrop as a station where the table is poorly served. This is not our experience; indeed, Lathrop has always been a popular station on account of the certainty that Stackpole & Lincoln would place before their guests an inviting meal. There are stations that ought to be hauled over the coals for the way they treat passengers; but Lathrop is not one.

MR. CHARLES S. DIEHL, a journalist of experience and an estimable gentleman, has succeeded Mr. A. Richardson as agent of the Associated Press for the Pacific Coast. Under the management of Mr. Diehl the Western Telegraphic News department will be kept up to the highest standard, and the newspapers receiving the dispatches of the Association will reap the advantages which his sagacity and enterprise will bring into his important work.

UNLESS the fill on the East Los Angeles side, forming the approach to the new Buena Vista bridge, is bulkheaded against the river, it will be washed away by the first freshet, and leave the eastern terminus of the bridge in the air.

THE aggregate amount of land sales recorded yesterday was $608,953—a quite a handsome business for one day—and yet we are not booming up to our best standard.

BUILDING is going forward very rapidly at Azusa. A large hotel is nearly up, and a number of fine houses are well under way.

CALIFORNIA BRANDY. A Washington dispatch states that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has authorized the location in New York city of a special bonded warehouse for the storage of grape brandy. It will be used almost exclusively for the storage of brandy produced in this State. For the reason that California is practically the only State which can make grape brandy, and the necessity for a bonded warehouse for that purpose shows the importance which the eastward trade in that product of our vineyards has attained.

GRAPE BRANDY is vastly superior in every respect to the same spirit distilled from anything else. There are problems in chemistry which still elude the most exhaustive analysis, and there are certain products which show different effects than by any structural difference which science can detect. Of this kind is grape brandy as distinguished from other brandies. It is apparently identical in composition, and yet its effects are vastly different. In medicine, for example, here this particular stimulant is required, grape brandy is the choice of the physician, if he can be assured of its quality, as he certainly can of the character of brandy made from California grapes.

California grapes under the 90 cent tax on brandy, and it has operated almost as a prohibition to its manufacture. In the East the distilleries are, to a very great extent, a close corporation; but with us the wine-maker makes brandy as he pleases, and he is free to add a medium of his pure grape spirit to his wine, as with some kinds of wine he properly may, even though his still and his vine vat are only ten feet apart and under the same roof, he must pay the government the 90 cent tax before he can use his own brandy to fortify his own wine.

Unlike the Eastern distillers, it has not been practicable for our distillers to make a powerful organization, so powerful as to make itself felt in Congress, and in consequence all our attempts to have the duty on grape brandy removed have been futile. Nor, indeed, do we see much prospect to hope for a lightening of the burden until the common sense of the people of the United States asserts itself and demands the abolition of the internal revenue tax on all distilled spirits, upon the plain proposition that it is a useless and onerous imposition, having fulfilled its original purpose, and now serving only to accumulate unnecessary revenue for the Government and to keep down an important domestic industry.—S. F. Chronicle.

Some Remarkable Cures.

"Did you ever notice how cats take to drug stores?" said a commercial traveler for a drug house. "Half the drug stores in the towns on my route have one or more cats about. I never found out till recently why cats have such a weakness for drug stores. One of my customers who owned a big cat that had loafed around his place several years, explained the matter to me. The cat followed him around behind the counter, rubbed against him and purred like a buzz-saw. 'She's teasing for her morning drink,' said the druggist, 'and when she gets the drink she is as good as cured.' 'Then he took down the extract of valerian and put some on the floor. The cat made a dive for it, sniffed it eagerly, and in about a minute she was hilarious drunk. She rolled over on the floor, quivered about on her back, and behaved in a most indecorous manner. The drunk lasted about five minutes. Then she came to and climbed on the druggist's case. Always after the drunk she is as good as cured.' 'The smartest cat I met on my travels was a pair, mother and son, in a hotel or billiard-room in Cleveland. They played one ball pool with rare skill. The kitten will start the ball and bound across the table after it. Then the old cat will catch it and send it back so swift that the kitten has to jump himself to nail it. Finally the mother will give the ball a push into one of the pockets, and when the kitten dives down into the slot after it the old cat will pounce on him and hold him in the pocket until he crawls for quarter. 'I stopped in Washington on my way home, and while waiting a friend in the Treasury Building, he showed me the worst wreck of a cat I ever saw. He was all signed off. The cat came to the Treasury under the name of a Republican administration, and formed a wide acquaintance among the office-holders in the building. She didn't take kindly to the Democrat or two who came into the Treasury under the new administration, and she was especially incensed when a dog entered her domain. One day Hector, the President's dog, snatched over in search of some plebeian dog to whip. The cat indignantly shined up the flue of an adjacent fireplace and remained over an hour. A department clerk lighted the gas over his desk and threw the match into the fireplace on some waste paper. The paper ignited, and in about a minute there was a wild yell and the cat was tumbled down out of the flue a singed and smoking ruin. [Exchange.]

Enemies of Bees.

At various times writers have pronounced the spider a friend to the bee-keeper. It seems to me that this statement ought to be received with considerable allowance. A year ago I prepared a number of cases of sections a considerable time before the honey harvest began, and piled them on top of each other until I should need them. When placed in position at the proper time the bees promptly took possession of nearly all; but there were several very strong colonies that resisted every effort to force them into the sections. I reversed comb, uncapped honey and contracted the hive space, but all to no purpose. It never occurred to me to see if anything was wrong in the cases, but at the end of the season I found that each case was occupied by several large and exceedingly vigorous spiders. They had taken possession before the cases were given to the bees, and they held possession all summer at an expense of several dollars to me. I doubt very much if the most aggressive colonies would have had the courage to displace such intruders. But it is not at the hive alone that the spider is a nuisance to the bee-keeper. Several years ago I was amusing myself in the flower garden one morning by pulling open the corolla of pink flowers on which was a small green spider not more than a quarter of an inch long. For a full minute the insect regarded each other without moving, then with a sudden spring the spider seemed to clasp the head of the bee for an instant with its anterior legs. In a moment he retreated to the further edge of the flower cluster, and the bee rolled to the ground dead. Before the spider made his spring the bee seemed dazed and confused; and my wife, looking on, begged me to hurry for its protection. But I believed the bee was safe against the attacks of such a puny enemy, and I could hardly believe the evidence of my eyes when I held the dead bee in my hand. Who can tell how often these tragedies of the field are enacted? The spider is everywhere; and if it is habitually so spiteful and venomous it deserves to be ranked among the most destructive enemies of the bee. It is undoubtedly an excellent protector of empty combs, but beyond this I consider its usefulness to the apiarist is ended. [Corr. Gleanings in Bee Culture.]

Woman and Her Diseases. Is the title of a large illustrated treatise, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, Boston, N. Y., sent to any address for ten cents in stamps. It teaches successful self-treatment.

"Consumption Cured" Would be a truthful name to give to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the most efficacious medicine yet discovered for arresting the early development of pulmonary disease. But "consumption cure" would not sufficiently indicate the scope of its influence and usefulness. In all the many diseases which spring from a derangement of the liver and blood the "Discovery" is a safe and sure specific. Of all druggists, it is a safe and sure specific. Of all druggists, it is a safe and sure specific. Of all druggists, it is a safe and sure specific.

How often is the light of the household clouded by signs of melancholy or irritability on the part of the ladies. If they are not to be blamed, for they are the result of ailments peculiar to that sex, which are unknown to the male, they may be removed and joy restored by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," which is a tonic and restorative for debilitated women, is certain, safe and pleasant. It is beyond all compare the great healer of women.

Dr. Quintan's Opinion of Malaria. Able and Verba. Santa is strictly products of California. Malaria is a product of the world. Dr. Quintan of Dublin in a paper read before the Medical Congress at Copenhagen, says: "Malaria has greater curative powers than Cod Liver Oil and equal to Chinese Quinine, and it has been demonstrated that Able and Verba Santa has equal, if not greater curative powers than Malaria. Able and Verba Santa combines the three with other well known expectorants and Narcotics (with-out opium) making it the greatest and best Cough medicine ever produced. Price 75 cents. Sold by C. F. Heinemann.

Unnecessary Misery. Probably as much misery comes from natural constipation as from any derangement of the functions of the body, and it is difficult to cure, for the reason that no one likes to take the medicine usually prescribed. Hamburg Figs were prepared to obviate this difficulty and they will be found pleasant to the taste of women and children; 25 cents; at all druggists, J. J. Mack & Co. proprietors, San Francisco.

At various times writers have pronounced the spider a friend to the bee-keeper. It seems to me that this statement ought to be received with considerable allowance. A year ago I prepared a number of cases of sections a considerable time before the honey harvest began, and piled them on top of each other until I should need them. When placed in position at the proper time the bees promptly took possession of nearly all; but there were several very strong colonies that resisted every effort to force them into the sections. I reversed comb, uncapped honey and contracted the hive space, but all to no purpose. It never occurred to me to see if anything was wrong in the cases, but at the end of the season I found that each case was occupied by several large and exceedingly vigorous spiders. They had taken possession before the cases were given to the bees, and they held possession all summer at an expense of several dollars to me. I doubt very much if the most aggressive colonies would have had the courage to displace such intruders. But it is not at the hive alone that the spider is a nuisance to the bee-keeper. Several years ago I was amusing myself in the flower garden one morning by pulling open the corolla of pink flowers on which was a small green spider not more than a quarter of an inch long. For a full minute the insect regarded each other without moving, then with a sudden spring the spider seemed to clasp the head of the bee for an instant with its anterior legs. In a moment he retreated to the further edge of the flower cluster, and the bee rolled to the ground dead. Before the spider made his spring the bee seemed dazed and confused; and my wife, looking on, begged me to hurry for its protection. But I believed the bee was safe against the attacks of such a puny enemy, and I could hardly believe the evidence of my eyes when I held the dead bee in my hand. Who can tell how often these tragedies of the field are enacted? The spider is everywhere; and if it is habitually so spiteful and venomous it deserves to be ranked among the most destructive enemies of the bee. It is undoubtedly an excellent protector of empty combs, but beyond this I consider its usefulness to the apiarist is ended. [Corr. Gleanings in Bee Culture.]

Dr. Henry's Remedy for Women and Children. Although Celery, Beef and Iron is patronized by all persons, it is particularly beneficial to women and children, as it has been found to be of the greatest benefit in many of the peculiar diseases incident to them, in nervous troubles of women, and in the many infantile complaints it is of great service. There is always a certain amount of distrust attending any new preparation that is placed before the public, as so many "sure cures" have been preceded by disappointment; but with Celery, Beef and Iron, its medicinal powers can only be shown in its use. For sale by all druggists.

THE GREAT REGULATOR. PURELY VEGETABLE.

Are You Bilious? The Regulator never fails to cure. I most cheerfully recommend it to all who suffer from Bilious Attacks or any Disease caused by a disarranged state of the Liver. W. R. BERNARD, KANSAS CITY, MO.

Do You Want Good Digestion? I suffered intensely with Full Stomach, Headache, etc. A neighbor, who had taken Simmons' Liver Regulator, told me it was a sure cure for my trouble. The first dose I took relieved me very much, and in one week's time I was as strong and hearty as I ever was. It is the best medicine I ever took for Dyspepsia. RICHMOND, VA. G. G. CRESSMAN.

Do You Suffer from Constipation? Testimony of HIRSH WARDEN, Chief Justice of the State: "I have used Simmons' Liver Regulator for constipation of my bowels, caused by a temporary derangement of the Liver, for the last three or four years, and always with decided benefit."

Have You Malaria? I have had experience with Simmons' Liver Regulator since 1865, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times for diseases peculiar to malarial regions. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation. REV. M. B. WHARTON, Sec'y Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Safer and Better than Calomel! I have been subject to severe spells of Constipation of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 grains of calomel, which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been using Simmons' Liver Regulator, which gave me relief without any interruption to business. ALBANY, N. Y. J. H. ZOLLIN & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

News Notes.
Next Monday, May 30th, will be a legal holiday, with no courts in session. J. H. Blumhardt, Esq., will deliver a temperance lecture at Santa Monica this evening, at Good Temple Hall, and all are cordially invited.

There was a report last night that a man had committed suicide at Pasadena by cutting his throat. The Coroner drove out immediately.

Answers have been filed in the cases of Margaret T. Smith against T. J. Mitchell et al. to recover land in Tulare county in the U. S. Circuit Court.

Thomas O'Neal and Wm. Follard were arrested yesterday at San Bernardino for selling liquor to Indians. No time has as yet been set for their examination.

The first wedding in the new settlement of Crescenta took place on Wednesday, the high contracting parties being Miss Anna Merrill and Fred. Foster, both formerly of Indianapolis.

The total of the sales of lots at Lonsburg on Wednesday amounted to $212,000. The owners of this promising new townsite are thinking of having another sale and excursion in the near future.

The Riverside, Santa Ana and Los Angeles Railroad Company, commenced suit yesterday in the Superior Court, to condemn a strip of land 100 feet wide through the estate of David Yerba, near Riverside.

A contract was let yesterday to Mr. Blair by the proprietors of the Raymond Addition for grading the streets and laying sidewalks in that lovely locality. This will enlarge the city of Pasadena about two hundred acres.

The case of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. A. H. Hiatt, to recover possession of lands in Tulare county and $500 damages, has been transferred from the Superior Court of that county to the United States Circuit Court.

M. W. Heath, or "Big Mike," as he is called, was in the neighborhood of the Schooner Saloon when the cowardly assault was made upon Officer Rulo, and he wants it distinctly understood that he is a witness for the People and not for the brutal assailants.

On Friday evening of next week the undergraduates of the Los Angeles College will give an entertainment at the Pavilion. The programme will include selections from "Ermine," gymnastic drills, the "Anvil Chorus," and other interesting musical and literary features.

A number of Spanish-American young men and señoritas will give an entertainment at Armory Hall to-morrow evening consisting of a drama in three acts, followed by a grand ball. It will be for the benefit of the monument to be erected to the memory of the deceased patriotic President of Mexico, Don Benito Juarez. The persons taking part in the play are all amateurs.

Owing to the absence of Rev. Eli Fay, of the Unitarian congregation, Rev. A. W. Edelman was requested to lecture next Sunday, but that day being the Jewish Pentecost, it was with regret that Mr. Edelman could not comply with their request. He, however, extends a cordial invitation to all the members to attend the dearest services, to be held in Masonic Hall, Spring street, on that day.

Mine host Mason of the Planters' Hotel is agitating the question of raising a fund for advertising Anaheim in Los Angeles and on the trains, by the distribution of descriptive pamphlets and folders. The response ought to be liberal, as that is the only really effective way of making Anaheim prominent. Los Angeles is the place where the missionary work should be done, and this fact should be borne in mind in all future efforts at advertising Anaheim.—Gazette.

The item in yesterday's HERALD concerning a difficulty between Emil Harris and Solomon Mendelsohn, was an error. Emil was not in the city at the time, but his brother did have a little trouble with Mendelsohn. It seems that the San Pedro boys made Solomon believe that his ticket had drawn a large prize in the Louisiana Lottery and he wanted to collect it. Victims of sudden wealth clouded Solomon's mind for the time being. The San Pedro boys should abstain from practical joking.

Rev. Dr. Schreiber will lecture this evening at 7:30, in the Synagogue, in English. Subject: "Is Jehovah a revengeful God?" On Saturday evening at 7:30 and Sunday morning at 9 o'clock the festival of Shabbath will be celebrated, and also the confirmation of Master H. Harris. The best musical talent of the city will take part in the services. The Synagogue will be beautifully decorated with flowers. Dr. Schreiber will lecture in English on "The position of Judaism towards the religious struggles of the day."

Mr. James Batchelder, who grew up with the Central Pacific Railroad, and who rose above all business or other servitude some years since, came in from San Diego yesterday, on route along the coast cities, for pure observation. During the past four years his only employment has been to travel, and purely to satisfy a desire to do so, probably because he got accustomed to it while railroad. He first journeyed around the world, then visited Alaska, Manitoba, and almost all the other accessible regions known. His affiliating acquaintance extends to nearly all the prominent and powerful men on this coast.

Died in the Mountains.
Some weeks ago Captain Joseph Moore, well known in this city, started out in the Tujunga mountains on a prospecting tour. Time passed and nothing was heard of him, and his relatives became uneasy. Finally his brother, Wm. Moore, started out to search for him. He returned yesterday with the sad news that he had found the dead body of the Captain up in the mountains. There were no marks of violence on the body, and it is probable that Moore lost his way among the devious windings of the mountain trails and perished of hunger. The Coroner will go to the scene to-day and hold an inquest on the remains.

CONCEALMENT.
Neglect to Report Smallpox Creates Trouble.

The two cases of smallpox which came to light on Wednesday were discovered by Chas. Parsons, who went to the saloon on the corner of Upper Main street and Bellevue avenue for the purpose of serving a subpoena, and who walked into the back room for that purpose.

The origin of the disease is about as follows: About a month since a man named Keene came to this city from Tucson, and shortly after visited the Lugo family, about nine miles outside of the city limits, where there were several cases of smallpox. He came back to this city and was taken down with the disease, but was hidden by his brother in a house directly opposite the saloon kept by Solomon and Moya. Here he was found when nearly well, but in some manner the disease had communicated itself to Moya's children, who were concealed in a back room to the saloon, separated from it only by a thin partition.

The two children were discovered assisted by Parsons, but there had been a death in the family of a child from the same disease. Health Officer Hagan obtained warrants for the arrest of Moya and Solomon for concealing the smallpox, and Officer Botello was sent to take the men to a tent on the smallpox hospital grounds, where they were kept until yesterday morning. When the officer visited the saloon he found a trunk which contained a dead child packed in ice, which the parents stated they were keeping until they could have it buried.

Officer Botello informed Assistant Health Officer McAvoy, who procured the ambulance and the child was immediately buried, it having been ascertained that it died of smallpox on the same morning.

Solomon and Moya were tried and convicted before Justice Austin yesterday, and both were fined, Solomon $25 and Moya $20. The Health Officer has carefully examined the neighborhood and stated that the cases all sprang from the one man who came here from the Lugo ranch, and that since the matter was reported, steps have been taken which renders the further spread of the disease an impossibility. The sick children were taken to the hospital, and the premises were thoroughly fumigated.

THE SCHOONER SALOON.
Another License Granted to New Proprietors.

It will be remembered that on last Saturday night Officer Rulo went into the Schooner Saloon at No. 16 Aliso street, to stop a fight which was in progress, and was attacked and beaten by the barkeeper, Jerry Murphy, and a crowd of roughs to whom justice was meted out during the early part of the week. The same night that the beating took place the Police Commissioners revoked the license and ordered the saloon closed, but yesterday the Board granted a new license to Messrs. King & Caldera for the same saloon. It appears that these gentlemen had purchased the Schooner Saloon for $1000 on the day that the beating took place but were not to take possession until the day following. This they could not do since the saloon had been closed up, and it is stated that Murphy, the barkeeper, whose bail is $800, knowing that he would not be kept by the new proprietors, created the trouble on purpose. However this may be, the Police Commission, it seems, determined yesterday to give them a chance to enjoy their purchase.

"Consumption Cure"
Would be a faithful name to give to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the most efficacious medicine yet discovered for arresting the early development of pulmonary disease. But "consumption cure" would not sufficiently indicate the scope of the medicine's usefulness. In all the many diseases which spring from a derangement of the liver and blood the "Discovery" is a safe and reliable cure. Of all druggists.

How often is the light of the household clouded by signs of melancholy or irritability on the part of the ladies. Yet they are not to be blamed, for they are the result of ailments peculiar to that sex, which men know not of. But the cause may be removed and joy restored by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," which, as a tonic and nerve for debilitated women, is certain, safe and pleasant. It is beyond all compare the great healer of women.
